Are you interested in learning how to collect native seeds? What native plant species look like when they are going to seed? The Nature Conservancy, Jackson County Master Gardeners Association, and JLW Cisma are happy to announce a collaborative seed collection event. Participants will be shown what native plants going to seed look like, and assist in collecting seeds so they can be used to re-seed the Grand River Fen Preserve.

For more information, or to register for this FREE event, email Dr. Shikha Singh at shikha.singh@macd.org or call 517-395-2089. Space is limited, so please register early!
